1. Пояснительная записка

Направленность программы — социально- гуманитарная. Программа призвана поддерживать у обучающихся устойчивый интерес к предмету и расширять знания обучающихся о стране изучаемого языка (Великобритании). Способствует обогащению у обучающихся новой страноведческой информацией, формированию уважительного отношения к стране изучаемого языка, её истории, традициям и культуре.

Уровень программы — ознакомительный. Предполагает использование и реализацию общедоступных и универсальных форм организации материала, среднюю сложность предлагаемого для освоения содержания программы материала.

Актуальность программы определяется необходимостью реализации содержательно-организационных условий, способствующих эффективности обучения иностранному языку в подростковом и взрослом возрастах.

В современных условиях начальный этап иноязычного образования смещается в направлении все более разновозрастных сроков начала изучения иностранных языков. В настоящее время не вызывает сомнения значительный потенциал обучения иностранному языку как с позиций интеллектуального, так и с точки зрения нравственного развития. Обучение иностранному языку способствует стимулированию общего и речевого развития, приобщает к культуре других народов, а также создает благоприятную базу для дальнейшего овладения иностранным языком. В то же время анализ исследований и практики обучения иностранным языкам позволил установить, что, несмотря на накопленный в теории и практике лингвистического образования обширный материал, его начальный этап остается наименее изученным. Основное внимание исследователей уделено организационно-методическим вопросам и изучению отдельных сторон речевой проблема условий формирования иноязычной деятельности, тогда как обеспечивающей коммуникативной компетенции как сложной системы, общекультурное развитие человека в целом, не получила своего окончательного решения. Речь в данном случае идет не столько о повышении эффективности преподавания иностранных языков, но, прежде всего, о последовательном развитии в процессе иноязычного образования личности, способной осознать роль языка как средства межкультурной коммуникации. Система дополнительного иноязычного благоприятными образования обладает условиями для познавательного развития, позволяет сделать процесс обучения иностранному языку мотивационно притягательным и личностно значимым.

Новизна и отличительные особенности данной программы состоят в том, что она объединяет в себе отличную методику, продуманные упражнения и тесты, а также мультимедийную составляющую (диалоги для аудирования, разнообразные коммуникативные задания, иллюстрации).

Программа составлена на основе УМК English File Oxford University Press.

Курс состоит из уровней Beginner, Elementary, Pre-Intermediate, Intermediate, Upper-Intermediate, Advanced. Содержание каждого уровня построено таким образом, что уделяется внимание всем важнейшим аспектам языка — чтению, аудированию, письму, разговору. Каждый юнит состоит из трёх — четырех подъюнитов, в конце которых следует повторение пройденного материала.

Лексический и грамматический материал дается гармонично и дозировано. Разговорная речь отрабатывается, в основном, в парах (разыгрывание диалогов).

Педагогической целесообразностью данной программы является овладение иностранным языком от начального до продвинутого уровня. На начальной ступени закладываются основы коммуникативной компетенции, создается база для дальнейшего изучения иностранного языка. На продвинутом уровне обучающиеся уже понимают объемные сложные тексты, говорят в быстром темпе.

Программа создает благоприятные условия для максимального раскрытия интеллектуального, индивидуального и творческого потенциала, выявления и развития лингвистических и специальных способностей.

Планирование курса и обучение на конкретном языковом уровне построено с учётом принципов системности и доступности, а также преемственности и перспективности между различными разделами уровня (юнитами (разделами) учебника).

Программа систематизирована с учётом знаний, умений и навыков, которыми слушатель владеет исходя из уровня знания языка и которые сформированы у слушателя на предыдущем уровне обучения.

«Курс английского языка» (для взрослых старше 16-ти лет) состоит из 6-ти уровней. Зачисляются слушатели на определенный уровень курса по результатам вступительного тестирования в зависимости от степени владения языком.

Целью «Курс английского языка» (для взрослых старше 16-ти лет) является обучение слушателей активному владению иностранным языком, т. е. умению адекватно и намеренно в ситуации общения выражать свои мысли на английском языке и понимать мысли, выраженные или выражаемые на данном языке, общению в письменной форме, сдачи международных экзаменов по английскому языку.

Это предполагает погружение в речевую среду английского языка, создание речевого опыта, обучение пониманию на слух и речевым реакциям в рамках повседневного и профессионального общения, обучение чтению как виду речевой деятельности.

Основные задачи программы:

- развитие языковых способностей и коммуникативно-познавательных интересов;
- формирование представления о культуре и традициях англоговорящих стран;
  - обучение чтению иноязычных текстов;
- ориентирование обучающихся в психологическом плане на понимание иностранного языка как внешнего источника информации и иноязычного средства коммуникации, усвоение и использование иностранного языка для выражения собственных высказываний и понимания других людей;

- подготовка обучающихся к естественной коммуникации в устной и письменной формах иноязычного общения;
  - закрепление умений и навыков по всем видам речевой деятельности;

Приложение № 2 к дополнительной общеобразовательной общеразвивающей программе «Курс английского языка» (для взрослых старше 16-ти лет)

Рабочая программа «Курс английского языка» (для взрослых старше 16-ти лет)

> Москва 2022 год

Программа составлена на основе учебно-методического комплекта «New English File», выпущенного издательством Oxford University Press. Она дает возможность сделать изучение языка интересным с самого начала.

Курс состоит из уровней Beginner, Elementary, Pre-Intermediate, Intermediate, Upper-Intermediate, Advanced. Содержание каждого уровня построено таким образом, что уделяется внимание всем важнейшим аспектам языка — чтению, аудированию, письму, разговору. Каждый юнит состоит из трёх — четырех подъюнитов, в конце которых следует повторение пройденного материала.

Лексический и грамматический материал дается гармонично и дозировано. Разговорная речь отрабатывается, в основном, в парах (разыгрывание диалогов).

Занятия по программе основаны на основных формах работы:

индивидуальная, групповая, фронтальная и парная. Во время занятий осуществляется индивидуальный и дифференцированный подход.

Целью «Курс английского языка» (для взрослых старше 16-ти лет) является обучение слушателей активному владению иностранным языком, т. е. умению адекватно и намеренно в ситуации общения выражать свои мысли на английском языке и понимать мысли, выраженные или выражаемые на данном языке, общению в письменной форме, сдачи международных экзаменов по английскому языку.

A banker's life

Itsuki Nakamura is a banker. He is from a small town in Japan, but now he lives and works in New York. American journalist, Manny Valdez, talks to Itsuki about his life and job.

How do you start a typical work day, Itsuki?

Well, I get up at five in the morning and go to the gym. Then I go home, have a shower and make breakfast. I live with my wife in a flat in New York, so we have breakfast together. We always have yoghurt and cereal and I usually drink orange juice. I go to work at 8 o'clock and take the subway to the office. I always use this time to read the news on my tablet.

Where do you work?

I don't work in a bank in the street. I work in an office. I do a lot of work for big multinational companies. I usually start work at 9 o'clock and finish at 6 o'clock in the evening. I sometimes have lunch in the office or at a small café.

Do you like your job?

I love it. I meet a lot of people from all over the world and I need to speak a lot of different languages. I speak Japanese, English, French, and Chinese. When I'm not at work I study Spanish.

What about your family?

I'm married. My wife's name is Isabella, she's American. We don't have children. My wife is from a big family. She has three sisters and two brothers! They all live in New York.

What do you do after work?

I usually get home at quarter past seven. I always cook dinner. My wife likes Japanese food and she never cooks! Then I read a book or speak to my mother on the phone. She lives in Japan.

Г	To: Jemma

	Subject: Holiday time

Hi Jemma, I hope you're okay. We're having a wonderful time here in Mexico. Last week we were in Mexico City. It's a really amazing city and there is a lot to do there. We didn't stay in a hotel because Mike has a friend, Jorge who lives there. He lives in a big house outside the city. We stayed with him and his family. He is married and has three children and two dogs. It was great fun. Marisol, Jorge's wife, loves cooking. She cooked dinner for us the first night and it was fantastic.

When we were in Mexico City we travelled by bus. It was very cheap and easy to use them. We visited a lot of interesting places, but my favourite was the Frida Kahlo museum. She was a famous artist and you can see a lot of her paintings in the museum. I loved it.

Yesterday we left Mexico City and got a plane to Acapulco. Here we're staying in a small hotel. It's lovely. There's a balcony and we have fantastic views. The hotel is near to a beautiful beach. Mike rented a car, so we can visit different places. Last night, after we checked in to the hotel, we walked down to the beach and had dinner at a nice restaurant. I really like eating Mexican food.

At the moment Mike is swimming in the hotel's swimming pool. I'm sitting in our room watching TV and writing emails. I'm sending you some photos of the holiday. In the first one you can see us arriving at Jorge's house in Mexico City. The second photo is me dancing last night! And the third photo is Mike relaxing next to the swimming pool this morning.

I'm missing you all.

Seaview is an attractive old house on the coast road with parking space for three or four cars. There aren't any neighbours close by and it's a five-minute walk from Burntown Beach. Downstairs there's a living room, a dining room, and a very big kitchen. There's also a library, so it's great for someone who likes reading. There is no central heating, but each room has a fireplace and the house is very warm. Upstairs there are four bedrooms, two bathrooms, and a shower room. The bedrooms are freshly painted and have new carpets and furniture. They all have large balconies and fantastic views over the sea.

Redcliffe is a town house and is only ten years old. Redcliffe is opposite the train station and there are regular trains to London. The house has a large living room, a kitchen, and a dining room downstairs. On the first floor there are two bedrooms and a really lovely bathroom. ### Read the interview and tick (√) A, B, or C.

Interview with Paul Mason

Last week Paul Mason, author of the novels Silence, Who did it? and Go Away, agreed to be interviewed by one of our journalists.

Lifestyle & Experience

I live in New York with my second wife and our three children. I wasn't always a writer. When I left school I got a job in a library. In my free time I read murder novels, but one day I decided to write one. I was lucky because people liked it. I earned a lot of money so I left my job at the library and began to write all the time. I get up at 6 a.m., go to the gym for an hour, then go to my office. I buy breakfast on the way and eat it while I check my emails. After I've answered my emails I start writing. I can easily spend 9 or 10 hours writing.

Tastes

After work I have dinner with my family. Sometimes we go out to parties or to the theatre, but most evenings I prefer to relax at home and listen to jazz or read. My favourite author is Agatha Christie and at the moment I'm reading a book she wrote about her life. My cat usually sits next to me while I read, and the rest of the family like to watch TV.

Places

One of my favourite places is Maine on the east coast. We have a small house near the beach. It isn't very far from Vermont, where we go skiing in the winter. In the summer, we usually go to Venice where my wife's family live. It's probably the most beautiful city I've ever seen. I stayed in Venice when I wrote my third book and that's where I learned to speak Italian and to play the guitar. I hope to buy a house there one day. Then I'd like to retire and learn to paint.

Shopping with mother?

I'm Cathy Huang and I'm 16. Welcome to my blog. This week I'm writing about shopping with your mother. Thanks for reading!

Have you ever been shopping with your mother? I'd like to hear you say 'Yes, and it was fun.' But are you really telling the truth? I went to the shopping centre yesterday with my mum. She wanted to buy me a dress for her birthday party. She's going to be 50 next weekend. So what's the problem with that? I hear you ask.

Well, the problem is, my mother always wants to buy me what she wants, not what I want. And we want very different things. I tried on a beautiful red dress, but she said it didn't fit. (It was very short!) Then I tried on a long skirt, but she didn't like the colour. (It was purple!) I was in and out of changing rooms all day and we couldn't agree on anything. She rolled her eyes and complained about everything I tried on. It was so depressing. And so boring. By 5 o'clock my feet were killing me and I

	Next time Mum wants to take me shopping, I'm going to tell her my room is a terrible mess and I have to tidy it now. I know it's not very nice to lie, but shopping with my mother is not fun. And, I've just seen a fantastic dress on eBay. It's so chic. I'm going to look amazing at Mum's party.	5 What is the eBay dress like?  5 Reading total 15

Survivors

This month our travel editor interviewed three people who survived a natural disaster. Here are their stories.

Linda Burrows, age 31

'I got divorced last year and decided to buy a ticket to New Zealand. It was an impulse, but I just wanted to go for it and enjoy this once in a lifetime trip. I spent two fantastic weeks there. At the end of my trip, I was leaving the hotel to go back to the airport when the earthquake struck. I was very frightened and I saw some terrible things. I stayed there for three more days. The situation was desperate. I realized I was very lucky to get home safely. If I ever see New Zealand on the TV, I immediately have to watch something different. I hope things will get better for me in the future.'

Klaus Roski, age 21

'My wife and I were on our honeymoon in Thailand when the tsunami happened. We were swimming in the sea and then everyone was running to the beach. We followed them, because we could see that something strange was happening. We climbed some stairs and went into a tall building behind the beach. We did the right thing and for some reason we were lucky; other people were not. We've been together for eight years now. If we talk about the tsunami, it helps us to understand our feelings about it.'

Andy Peters, age 26

'My brother works as a pilot in Canada and earns a lot of money. Last year he sent me a ticket to Vancouver. So I went there to visit him. We were having a great holiday until we saw the news on TV one night. There were big forest fires near us and there was a lot of smoke. My brother got a phone call and went to fly a military plane to put water on the fires. I was really worried about him, but he arrived back safely. And I got home safely, too.'

Is gossip really good for you?

That's the question we asked some of our readers this week. Email us and tell us what you think.

Lesley Hartley, age 25

'There's a boy in my class at university who I really like. He's called Tony. I was too scared to ask him out. I told my best friend Alice this secret. She said she wouldn't tell anyone. Alice couldn't keep the secret, though, and she gossiped to her other friends. Of course, her friends told Tonyl Fortunately for me, the gossip was actually a good thing. Tony waited for me after class one day. He told me that Alice's friends had gossiped about me. And then he invited me to go out to the cinema one night. We've been together since then! I think people are probably programmed to gossip. We need to gossip to build connections with other people."

James Goodman, age 35

'Unfortunately, I think gossiping is in our genes. And I don't think it's a positive thing. People gossip to make themselves feel more important. They don't think about the effect it has on the people they gossip about. For example, one of my neighbours gossiped about me after I divorced my wife. She said that I had treated my wife badly. Another neighbour told my work colleagues that my wife was going to move to Germany with the children. These are both lies. I've found it difficult to meet someone else because people believe the gossip, not me.'

Eric French, age 28

'We shouldn't feel guilty about a bit of gossip. I believe that gossiping is good for gossip. I believe that gossiping is good for you. We are people, and people enjoy sharing news - both good and bad - so that they can form and improve their social relationships. I'll give you an example ... I'm quite shy and I don't make friends easily. My girlfriend told me that I didn't go out enough, and that I should have a better social life. She complained about this to her best friend, Susan. Then, one night, I got a phone call from Danny, Susan's boyfriend. He asked me to go out with him to see a band. I had a brilliant night. Since then, Danny and I have seen a band every week. He's a good friend now and I feel much happier."

The end of the phone call?

Is the phone call becoming a thing of the past? New research suggests we are now more likely to text or email friends or family than dial their number.

The amount of time we spend talking on our mobile phones has gone down by 5% and by twice that for landline calls, whereas the number of text messages we send has doubled in the last few years.

The reasons for this may, in part, be because so many more people have smartphones, which means we can communicate using social networking, instant messaging, and email instead. In fact, we prefer to use our phones to play games, watch films, and look up information rather than make a phone call and speak to someone!

Whatever the reason, there is no question that we have changed the ways we use the telephone. These Vocabulary total days we often feel we shouldn't call someone without making an arrangement to call first. Many people are frustrated if they are disturbed by an unexpected phone call. We want to be able to choose when we reply and we don't want to have to chat when we are busy with something else. Written communication allows us to respond quickly and economically. It also means we can think about what we want to say before we get in touch. Phones can also be noisy in open-plan offices, and many people won't call back if you leave a message on their voicemail. They will email instead.

On the other hand, some psychologists say text and email are less rich and 'colder' because you lose the tone and expression of conversation. Others would disagree and say you don't have to hear someone's voice to have an interesting and intimate conversation.

It isn't surprising that research has found that for the over-65s, phoning friends and writing family on a landline is still the most popular way of getting in touch. Many of us hearing 6 the phone ring know it is probably our mother! You probably won't be amazed either to learn that the great majority (83%) WRITING of adults of all ages said they still prefer to communicate face to face. # Dreaming of Africa

Luke

I'm studying philosophy, art and history for my A levels at a state secondary school, and I have to make a decision soon about which university I want to apply to. If I were better at science, I would study zoology as I have always had an interest in animals. I might study anthropology (the study of different people around the world) as at least that will give me the chance to travel abroad. As soon as I finish my exams I'm really keen to go to Uganda. If I could find an animal conservation charity that would let me work for them, I would like to stay there for a few months. My dream is to work with gorillas one day.

Naomi

Although I spent three months revising for these exams, I'm still worried about the results, which are coming out soon. Unless I get A grades for all my subjects (maths, chemistry and biology), I won't get into university to study medicine.

I've had to be really disciplined about everything and I'm not going to celebrate until I know I've been successful. I'm also working at an old people's home as a volunteer because if I can get lots of practical experience, that will also improve my chances. When I graduate, I'm determined to work for the medical charity, Doctors Without Borders, and work in Africa.

Jake

It's my last term at school and I'm taking my A level exams in a month. If I don't pass them, I don't really mind because I'm not very motivated to go on to get a degree. Seven years of secondary education is enough in my opinion! If my mum wasn't so strict about revision, I would be practising the guitar, which I love. When I finish my exams, I'm going to take up the drums. I'm doing geography, French and music and they're all subjects that will be useful in the real world. My dream is to travel around French West Africa and to play and sing with Youssou N'Dour!

Read the article about the effects of climate change in the UK. Five sentences have been removed. Which sentence A-F fits each gap (1-5)? There is one extra sentence you do not need to use. You can earn 2 points for each correct answer.

The Effects of Climate Change in the UK

Climate change is a long-term change in weather patterns over periods of time that range from decades to millions of years. It is one of the greatest environmental issues of our time.

The effect of changes in our climate has been a hot topic for many years. And now government ministers in the UK have warned that the internet could be badly affected due to climate change. (----- 1 -----)

Scientists say that higher temperatures and rainstorms could affect wi-fi communications. In addition, wetter winters and drier summers might lead to subsidence – the sinking of the ground – damaging underground cables. (----- 2 -----) If climate change affects the quality of the signal, or there is no signal due to extreme changes in temperature, people will clearly be disadvantaged. It would be very serious if communication systems were not working in the height of an emergency. This is why the issue must be dealt with.

The Environment Secretary, Caroline Spelman, recently explained the government's plans to take action. (----- 3 -----) However, if these facilities cannot deal with the increase in floods and storms likely to accompany rising temperatures, the money will have been wasted, she warned. Speaking at Blackfriars Railway Station in London, which a UK rail company says is being redeveloped with the long-term effects of climate change in mind, Ms Spelman said the UK economy would not be able to grow if infrastructure – transport and communications networks and reliable energy and water supplies – failed.

Ms Spelman explained that our economy is built on this infrastructure. But it could not grow if there are repeated power failures, or goods cannot be transported because roads are flooded and railways have been damaged, or if heavy rainfall or high temperatures negatively affect wi-fi signals. (---- 4 ----) According to Ms Spelman, they could come forward and develop new technologies and processes to help our current systems better deal with climate change.

A government report published recently outlines how planning and design of new systems needs to consider the effect of climate change. This is especially important as many projects will still be there in 50 to 100 years from now. The study gives details of what action needs to be taken by the owners of transport networks, for example. (---- 5 ----)

Rail Minister Theresa Villiers explained that although the UK government needs to manage money very carefully, it is committed to spending considerable sums on transport through vital projects such as the Thameslink upgrade, Crossrail, the proposed High Speed rail network and more electrification of the rail network.

The new Blackfriars Railway station in London is being fitted with technology including sun pipes, rainwater harvesting systems, insulation and solar panels to make it less reliant on water and electricity networks. Perhaps this station will lead the way for others all over the country to become more environmentally friendly.

- A It also highlights the role of the government in protecting the UK from the effects of climate change.
- B So, how long has it been damaged for?
- C This involves spending around £200billion on UK

- transport and power supplies over the next five years.
- D As well as getting money from the government, she also asked for help from British businesses.
- E So, what does that mean for people who need to use these communications?
- F Roads, railways, and power and water supplies also need to be protected as weather patterns become more serious.

Read the article about people and happiness. Five sentences have been removed. Which sentence (A-F) fits each gap (1-5)? There is one extra sentence you do not need to use. You can earn 2 points for each correct answer.

Great Britain - Or Is It?

If someone asked you how happy the people in your country are, what would you say? The British government recently asked the Office for National Statistics (ONS) to carry out a survey to find out if people in the country are, in general, happy or not. Most Britons report being satisfied with life, with concerns over work and finances overtaken by happiness gained from children, relationships, and where people live.

The government survey was released just days after economists made one of the most depressing forecasts of recent times about long-term economic growth. (---- 1 -----) Not only that, but it would leave the public worse off than they were ten years ago. Despite this, the survey paints a picture of the country largely emotionally unaffected by the crisis.

The survey of 4,200 adults is part of the British Prime Minister's £2 million drive to get a better idea of how the country is doing, rather than just focusing on budgets and figures. People were asked various questions about their lives and were asked to give marks out of ten about how they felt about these areas. The ONS's work showed that on average people rated their life satisfaction at 7.4 out of 10. When asked whether things they did in life were worthwhile, people on average gave a score of 7.6. (---- 2 ----) Happiness with people's financial situation had the lowest average score of 6.2 out of 10, followed by work situation, with 6.7 out of 10. When asked specifically about satisfaction with the balance between time spent on work and on other areas of life, low scores were also given, with an average of 6.4 out of 10.

The answer to the question, 'Overall, how anxious did you feel yesterday? caused some worry. More than a quarter rated this 5 out of 10 — where 10 was feeling 'completely anxious'. (—— 3 ——) These areas of life had the highest average scores, with both scoring at 8.3 out of 10.

Lord Richard Layard, professor at the London School of Economics, said it was likely that life satisfaction would fall as the situation gets worse. (—— 4 ——) And when things are going badly and times are hard, people start to feel less happy with their lives.

The professor, who founded the Action for Happiness group to promote well-being, said policymakers – the people who make important financial decisions – could use the data to lessen the pain of recession. But they would need to first identify how to measure happiness, then work out what makes people 'miserable or happy'. Lastly, they ought to assess how much happiness one can create by spending taxpayers' cash. (——5—)

Paul Allen of the ONS said another big factor in happiness was health. He said they saw that people who responded when their health was bad, reported anxiety. He added that they were trying to build up a picture of how people rate happiness. 'One of the most revealing aspects of the emerging science around happiness is about language. Britons associated happiness with being 'calm, relaxed, and peaceful' rather than 'energized and excited'. So, perhaps it pays in more ways than one to follow the great

A Step In The Right Direction

It was once famously said that some things in life - like paying taxes and death - are inevitable. And leaving education trying to find employment is something that young people everywhere have to face. But despite the large amount of research that has been undertaken on young people in the job market, relatively little is known about what happens once young people start their first job. A team of researchers from Leeds Metropolitan University looked into this aspect. The survey focused on 30 people and 39 employers, and addressed a range of issues in relation to recruitment, employment, and particularly young people into the workplace.

It is clear from the interviews with young people that, for the vast majority, the idea of a 'job for life' no longer exists. While some had clear career ambitions, the majority appeared to be unclear on what they wanted to do. One consequence of this is that many young people saw their early work experiences as temporary – a 'stop gap' until their ideas on what they wanted to do had developed, or simply a way of earning money to pursue other ambitions such as travel.

This tendency has also been noted by many employers, and is particularly disappointing to smaller businesses looking for long-term loyalty in their staff. However, some employers – for example in areas such as financial services and call centres – had adjusted to the new situation, and appeared to accept that they cannot expect young people to be loyal and see a long-term future with one employer.

Like a number of other studies, the findings confirm that employers tend to focus on 'softer' skills and behavioural qualities in the recruitment process, with a less prominent role played by formal qualifications. The opinions of this sample of young people were remarkably consistent with those of the employers. Most of the young people seemed to have understood the message that formal qualifications are often a necessary but not sufficient condition for obtaining the types of jobs which they hope to do in the future. They recognized that skills like communication, team-working, organization, and customer service are all important. There was evidence that many young people had clearly worked on developing such skills.

Where there does appear to be a significant difference of opinion between the views of young people and employers related to the extent to which young people actually possess the necessary 'employability' skills. By and large, the young people interviewed were confident in their ability to demonstrate these skills and qualities. Employers, on the whole, were much less positive about this, often feeling that educational institutions were focusing too strongly on academic skills and qualifications, at the expense of employability.

Another area where employers' and young peoples' views differed is in relation to Information Technology (IT) skills. When asked about the things they value most about young recruits, many employers mentioned their ability with computers. On the other hand, few young people mentioned this explicitly. The probable explanation is that young people simply take their IT skills for granted, often not realizing how valuable they might be to some employers. Encouraging young people to be more positive about this aspect might help some to improve the way they are viewed by potential employers.

In terms of the inductions provided for their young recruits, the results of this study confirmed both expectations and the findings of earlier research — that employers vary widely in the nature of the training they provide. Differences included the length of time the inductions ran, how formal the training was, what topics were covered, and how often training occurred. The reaction of most young people to the induction they had experienced was positive, or at least neutral. There is clearly a tension between the need for new recruits to become good at their jobs, and their understandable desire to get involved as quickly as possible.

From the point of view of the employer, much depended upon the nature of the job, the type of employer (particularly size and sector), and the frequency with which they recruit young people. In general, the more regularly young people were recruited and the larger the employer, the more formal the induction process.

In uncertain economic times, it seems that young people more than ever are having to do all they can to find employment.

- 1 The survey revealed that, in general, young people
- A do not value the early work experience they gain in any way.
- B are unconvinced they will do the same job until they retire.
- C would prefer to have a gap year before starting higher education.
- D are unsure about which jobs they want to do when they leave school.
- 2 What do employers think about formal qualifications?
- A They are less important than behavioural qualities.
- B They are more important than behavioural qualities.
- C They are equally as important as behavioural qualities.
- D They are more important than behavioural qualities for certain jobs only.
- 3 What can we learn from the survey about young people and IT skills?
- A Employers do not assume that all young employees have good IT skills.
- B Young people need to perfect their IT skills before starting work for an employer.
- C Young people should promote their IT skills to employers more than they do currently.
- D Employers do not enjoy feeling inadequate as young people's IT skills are often superior to theirs.
- 4 The survey suggests that young people themselves

LOST IN TRANSLATION?

There's a well-known story in the world of literary translators about the translator who was thrilled to see his work appear at great length in an article in a prestigious magazine. He had translated a number of novels by a little-known Scandinavian novelist, who he believed had been neglected and not received the attention or praise he deserved. He had dedicated much of his working life to trying to get this novelist some recognition. The article agreed with his assessment of the novelist's work and illustrated its view of his worth by quoting long passages from the translations.

But something was missing. The translator searched in vain for a mention of his name. It didn't appear anywhere. The translator's joy at the coverage of his favourite author was considerably spoiled by this. He felt that he himself should have had some recognition in the article. The implication was that the translations had just appeared from nowhere, or even perhaps that the novelist had done them himself. It was as if the translator did not exist, and all the efforts he had made had never happened.

This incident raises a fundamental question about the status and function of the literary translator. Most people would agree that it was wrong of the magazine to omit any mention of the translator. However, it is also true that readers themselves operate in exactly the same way, and for them it is also as if the translator didn't exist. When people read a translation of a novel, they want to feel they are reading what the novelist, and not someone else, wrote. They don't want to be reminded that they are not reading, and would not be able to read, the original novel as created by the novelist. The translator has fulfilled a necessary function for them, but they do not wish to know who the translator was or pay any attention to what they have done. Readers are simply the receivers of what the translator does. So even though we might wish for direct contact with the novelist, we depend on the translator.

In this global age, translators have become even more important. More and more works of fiction are being translated into more and more languages. Readers are now able to experience and understand other cultures more than ever through the reading of translated novels. The works of more and more novelists are now accessible to people in other parts of the world. This applies not only to new novels but also to fresh translations of old classics. The adventurous reader can now enjoy novels from many eras and many cultures that previously they would not have been able to.

And central to this is the translator, working heroically to come up with the translation that captures exactly what is in the original work, and often poorly paid. Although readers may be happy for them to remain obscure, perhaps they should be getting the recognition they deserve.

- the recognition they deserve. 1 What do we learn about the translator mentioned in the first paragraph? A He sent an article about a certain novelist to an important magazine. B His opinion of a certain novelist was shared by an important magazine. C He had worked with a certain novelist on translations of his novels. 2 When the translator looked closely at the article, A he did not mind the fact that his name did not B he was annoyed that some of the information was false C he felt that his own efforts had not been rewarded 3 The writer says that the example of the article A something that literary translators should realize B a general attitude towards literary translators C a point often made by literary translators 4 The writer says that readers of translated novels A would prefer to be reading the original work B assume that the translation is not as good as the original work C are sometimes unaware that it is a translation 5 The writer says that readers A wish to know who the translator was B do not wish to know who the translator was C want to pay attention to what the translator has 6 The writer says that translators have become even more important in this global age because A there are fewer translators in the world B there aren't many translators who can do a good C more works of fiction is being translated in

A STUDY OF MULTITASKING
Technology increasingly makes it possible for people to do more than one task at a time, for example moving between browsing the web and using other computer programs, talking on mobile phones while driving, or flying a jet and monitoring air traffic. Indeed, the word describing this – 'multitasking' – has gone from being invented to being commonly used in everyday life in a remarkably short time. A recent study has looked at whether multitasking is purely beneficial or has a downside, especially when the tasks being done together are complicated ones.

The researchers concluded that when people are multitasking, they are using what they call 'executive control' processes. These processes concern different parts of the brain and involve the brain allocating different mental resources to different tasks and deciding which tasks are more important than others. The brain's executive control gives the appropriate resources to the different aspects of tasks, such as understanding what the task requires, thinking about what to do, and taking action.

The researchers conducted an experiment into how much time was lost when people repeatedly switched between two tasks. The tasks varied in terms of how complex they were and how familiar the subjects were with doing those tasks, and they included such things as solving mathematical problems and classifying geometric objects. The researchers measured how long it took the subjects to carry out the tasks and considered the speed in connection with whether the tasks were familiar or unfamiliar, and whether the rules for doing them were simple or complicated.

The results of the experiments were the same for every kind of task. In each case, the subjects lost time when they moved from one task to another, and the amount of time they lost increased when the tasks were complex or unfamiliar. When they were familiar with a task, they were able to adapt to changing to it and get on with it much more quickly. The researchers say that these results indicate that the brain's executive control consists of two separate stages. They called the first stage 'goal shifting', meaning a preference to do one of the tasks rather than the other at a particular moment. The second stage they named 'rule activation', meaning moving from engaging with the rules associated with how to go about one task to engaging with the rules involved in doing the other task. The second stage, rule activation, takes a significant amount of time, and this delay multiplies when people keep switching between tasks. The result is that quite a lot of time is lost when multitasking, in comparison with the time that would be taken if each task was completed separately.

This has major implications for multitasking, suggesting that although people may think that it saves time without affecting efficiency, in reality it actually takes more time, and this may have an adverse effect on efficiency. In the case of someone using a phone while driving, multitasking could mean that they are not in full control of their vehicle during the short period when they are switching to using the phone.

The researchers feel that their research has important consequences for multitasking. Their conclusions regarding executive control and how it works may, they believe, help people to look for strategies that will enable them to operate in the most efficient way possible when they are multitasking. And an understanding of executive mental control could have an impact on the design of the technology involved in such areas as operating aircraft and air traffic control, as well as other activities where the interface between humans and computers is crucial to efficiency.

In addition, there are other possible applications of this research. Understanding how people function while multitasking could assist with recruitment, training, and assessment of personnel in the workplace. It could also have an influence on government and industrial regulations, assist in the diagnosis and treatment of brain-damaged patients, and increase our general understanding of how the brain works.

- 1 What does the writer suggest about the word 'multitasking'?
  - A It has changed in meaning since it was invented.
  - B It is not always used appropriately.
  - C Its increased use reflects a change in everyday life.
- 2 The aim of the research was to

A compare the advantages and disadvantages of multitasking B discover why multitasking is regarded as a wholly good thing C find out if there are any negative effects of multitasking 3 The researchers use the term 'executive control' to describe how the brain A controls some actions more than others B organizes how different tasks are carried out C distinguishes between easier and harder tasks 4 What do we learn about the experiment? A The researchers knew that some of the subjects had done similar tasks before. B Not all of the subjects did the same tasks. C The subjects started with simple tasks and moved on to more complicated ones. 5 Which of the following happened during the experiment? A Sometimes little time was lost moving from one task to another. B Some subjects always found it hard to move from one task to another. C Complex tasks presented more problems than unfamiliar tasks. 6 One of the two stages of the brain's executive A leads to a major disadvantage of multitasking B takes longer for some people than for others C has no connection with multitasking 7 One of the implications of the research is that A some people are not suited to multitasking B multitasking always results in less efficiency C a common attitude to multitasking is wrong 8 The researchers believe that their research might A encourage people not to do multitasking in some situations B affect the way that people approach multitasking C result in technology replacing people for certain 9 In the final paragraph, the writer says that multitasking is something that A is likely to increase in the future B people in authority have paid too little attention to C is relevant in many areas of life

10 What is the main topic of the text?

A The growth of multitasking

B How complicated the brain's processes for multitasking are the results were extraordinary and an unprecedented number of sales resulted.

The advert suggested that instead of there being lots of operators sitting there and hoping people would call, there were so many people who wanted the product that people might have to wait until they could get it. This showed just how desirable the product was. Potential customers decided that if so many other people wanted it, they definitely wanted it, too.

C

What role does choice have in persuading people to buy or get something? One study looked at the choices employees made when offered different retirement programmes. This showed that the more choices people were given, the less likely they were to choose anything at all. Another study in a supermarket revealed a similar effect of choice. A particular supermarket displayed either 6 or 24 different kinds of jam. When there were 24 jams to choose from, 3% of customers went to the display and bought one of the jams. When there were 6 jams on display, 30% of customers did so.

D

To what extent can fear play a part in persuasion? One experiment involved public health leaflets on the dangers of tetanus infection. Some of the leaflets consisted almost entirely of frightening images of infected people, with a bit of information about infection, while some contained no images at all, only information about infection. Some included information on where people should go to get tetanus injections to protect themselves, while others only gave this information and nothing else. The outcome was that the greatest number of people who went for injections were those who had been given the leaflet with both frightening images and instructions on where to go for injections. People who had been given the leaflets dealing only with infection did nothing. The conclusion was that fear paralyses people if no solution is offered, but if people are frightened and offered a solution they are motivated to take action.

E

Research has also looked into the issue of restaurants persuading people who have booked to let them know if they are not going to turn up. This shows that getting people to promise to do something makes them more likely to do it than simply asking them to do it. If the restaurant asks people to call if they can't make it, 30% of them simply don't turn up and don't tell the restaurant. If, however, the restaurant asks them to call if they have to cancel and they reply that they will do so, only 10% fail to notify the restaurant in advance that they will not be coming.

F

Another aspect of persuasion concerns getting someone to change their mind. Everyone knows how hard this can be. It's hard to prove to someone that a previous decision was wrong, and as people get older they get less and less willing to change their minds. This is because people want things to be consistent, they want their attitudes, statements, values and actions to follow a set pattern. The only way to persuade them to change is to acknowledge this by agreeing that the previous decision they made was a perfectly understandable one. This allows them to focus on your suggestion without feeling that their previous decision was wrong in any way. As a result, they may be persuaded to break out of their established pattern without feeling uncomfortable about doing so.

A some of the choices proved more attractive than others B the number of choices affected what people did C only a few people selected any of the choices 5 What is said about the leaflets mentioned in section D? A Some of them contained images that were not frightening. B Some of them contained images and information. C Some of them contained only images. 6 What did the experiment described in section D A Fear alone can prevent people from taking action. B Fear always causes people to take action. C Fear persuades people to take action more than information does. 7 The research described in section E involved A asking people to do different things B making the same request more than once C people agreeing to a request 8 In section F, the writer says that trying to persuade people to change their minds can A take longer with some people than with others B seem like a challenge to ordinary behaviour C fail for reasons that do not seem logical 9 The writer advises in section F that you should not A discuss the other person's attitude in general B make your suggestion too strongly C criticize a previous decision 10 The writer's purpose in the article as a whole is to A discuss a number of different forms of persuasion B advise the reader on how to get better at

2 READING

Read the article "Walt Disney" (The man behind the mouse) by Melissa Burdick Harmon and do the tasks that follow.

It was 3.30 in the morning and 8-year-old Walt Disney was doing what he did at that time every morning — rolling hundreds of copies of the Kansas City Morning Times that he would soon place behind the screen door of subscribers along his route.

It was hard work for a little kid who also had to go to school, then deliver another round in the evening. Sometimes he had to traipse through three feet of snow. Other times he got so tired he'd sneak into an alley for a catnap. But the paper round beat picking apples for a living. That's what he'd been doing before, on his family's failing farm in Marceline, Missouri. The problem was that his boss — his stern father, Elias — had the nasty habit of delivering daily beatings both to Walt and his brother Roy, eight years Walt's senior. After a disgusted Roy left home, the brunt of the work, and the beatings, fell on Elias' younger son.

Walt Disney, born on December 5, 1901, never had time for a childhood. As a result, he spent all of his adult life attempting to invent one for himself. In the process—almost by accident
— he created wonderful childhood memories for generation after generation of children worldwide.

An airbrushed boyhood.

Later, Walt would paint a nostalgic picture of life in Missouri, carefully airbrushing away the difficult times. Once he was punished for painting a cartoon on the wall of the house. As always, it was his teenage brother, Roy, who comforted him, rocking him to sleep.

When the Disneys moved to Chicago, Walt signed up for cartooning classes at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, working three part-time jobs to pay for them. But all these were abandoned during World War 1, when, at the age of 16, he forged his parents' signatures and became an ambulance driver for the Red Cross in France.

Home again, Walt joined Roy in Kansas City and found work as a commercial artist. Here he met another artist, Ub Iwerks, and together they developed a series of short films called Alice in Cartoonland. Walt moved to Los Angeles, where Roy was in hospital with tuberculosis. He searched desperately for a distributor. The night he got a telegram offering him $1,500 apiece for six Alice shorts, Walt raced to the hospital where Roy was a patient, and persuaded him to leave hospital and come to work for him the next day.

Roy Disney would devote the rest of his life to helping his baby brother, skillfully handling the business end of the Disney empire. Walt also employed Ub Iwerks as chief animator.

Of mice, marriage and men

When he was 24, he married one of his employees, Lillian Bounds. It was a union that would last – although not always happily – until his death 41 years later. At 24, Walt was already married to his work. He created a cartoon character called Oswald the Lucky Rabbit, who was a great success. He then shifted his attention to mice, or one particular mouse called Mortimer. Lillian dismissed the name Mortimer as "too sissy", so Mortimer became Mickey. Surprisingly, it was Ub Iwerks, not Walt who first drew him. Walt, however, provided Mickey's voice. They made a talkie, Steamboat Willie, which premiered on November 18, 1928, to rave reviews, and Mickey Mouse became an overnight sensation.

Success followed success, but Walt pushed himself even harder. In 1930 he suffered a nervous breakdown due to overwork, and when Lillian surprised him with the news that she was pregnant, he became severely depressed. How could a man whose whole life was dedicated to giving himself a childhood take on the burden of becoming a parent?

He produced his first feature-length cartoon, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, for which he won a special Oscar.

The last, best times

Post Second World War, Walt continued to work prolifically. In 1950 he produced his first live-action film, Treasure Island. Then came Disneyland. Everyone tried to dissuade him, saying it was too costly a dream, but he wouldn't listen. He oversaw every nut and bolt of its creation. His great world of fantasy opened on July 17, 1955. In the next seven weeks, more that one million people walked down Disneyland's Main Street USA, an idealized version of Main Street, Marceline, Missouri, circa 1900. The man who had spent his painful childhood in the real-life version of that town now stood in the window of an apartment decorated exactly like his boyhood home, tears streaming down his face, watching other people enjoy the perfect childhood world that he had created.

In November 1966 he was diagnosed with lung cancer. He was given six months to two years to live, but two weeks later, after spending the evening with Roy, working on a new Florida theme park, Walt Disney died. He had just turned 65.

2 READING

Read the article 'The Cult of Celebrity' and do the tasks that follow.

THE CULT OF CELEBRITY

We are fascinated by their every move, we want to know everything about them. Jack Delaney asks why we are obsessed with the rich and famous.

Some are born famous (like royalty), some achieve fame (like film stars) and some have fame thrust upon them (like crime victims). Sometimes their celebrity is short-lived, sometimes it lasts a lifetime. In some rare cases, for example Diana, Princes of Wales, and Marilyn Monroe, it can be transformed by death into a sort of iconic status. But whatever the case or circumstances, being a celebrity changes your relationship with the world. From being a private person, you become public property and everybody claims a bit of you. You are the object of envy as well as admiration, fair game for criticism, interrogation, ridicule and spite.

We make 'em, we break 'em

We treat the famous with a mixture of reverence and brutality. We adore them, praise them, scrutinize them and destroy them. We make them unable to tell where their real selves end and PR-manufactured images begin. We have no mercy, we show no shame. It is easy to assume that all aspects of a celebrity life are free to be examined because he or she is on show, which means he or she doesn't have the same reality as everyone else. And it is precisely because many modern celebrities are no more special than the rest of us that we feel justified in treating them with such contempt. We build them up and knock them down.

So who are the famous?

It used to be the case that fame was bestowed only as a consequence of some mighty achievement or gruesome misdeed, when newspapers were filled largely with accounts of such things as earthquakes and wars, and when it was deemed contemptible for journalists to delve into the private lives of famous people, even the very famous.

It is now possible for people who are living ordinary private lives to become famous, for at least a short time, through the media - by appearing on game shows or confessional TV, for instance, or by volunteering to be the subject of a fly-on-the-wall documentary. The readiness of people to let programme-makers into their homes, to answer the most intimate questions about their lives, and to allow themselves to be filmed in the most undignified and unflattering situations, never ceases to amaze.

Why are we so obsessed?

The American writer Norman Mailer said that in an age without religion, celebrities are our new gods. If we have no faith in an afterlife and this life is our only one, then celebrity is the nearest any of us will get to immortality, and the pursuit of it becomes more urgent. At the pathological extreme of this motivation are murderers like Mark Chapman, who assassinated John Lennon partly, he said, to make himself famous.

Another feature of modern society is the power and omnipresence of the mass media. Its explosive expansion in the past couple of decades has created an insatiable need for new material. All the newspapers, magazines, television and radio programmes require an endless supply of human-interest stories. There are some totally talentless people who are simply famous for being famous. As Andy Warhol said 'In future, everyone will be famous for fifteen minutes.'

1. Would the author of the article, Jack
